

ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE

PUBLIC SPEAKING AND FACILITATING PRESENTATIONS

July 17, 2016: 9am – 4pm

Cost: sliding scale $50-100 per day

*Payment at door (cash, credit card, or cheque)

Certificate available upon request

Community Room Adler University
1090 West Georgia St. Vancouver

RSVP Online: Search 'the world's a stage darien' at www.eventbrite.com

Many of us are afraid of public speaking and find it challenging to facilitate an effective conversation—one that stays on topic and encourages participation. “All the World’s a Stage” will introduce the skills necessary to offer successful presentation and lead a safe well-facilitated group discussion.

Topics will include:

Part 1: Basic Presentation Skills

- Self-talk and Public Speaking
- The Secrets of Presenting
- Communication and Presenting

Part 2: Facilitation Process Tools

- Facilitation Modes
- Safety and Facilitation
- Encouraging Participation (Validation technique)
- Reaching Through Barriers (Acknowledgement Technique)
- Responding to Challenging Situations

ABOUT DARIEN THIRA, PhD., Reg. Psych.

Darien Thira is a registered psychologist who serves as a community development/mental health consultant for many Aboriginal communities across Canada and offers training workshops and clinical consultation related to a variety of communications, trauma, and crisis-related fields. He is an adjunct faculty member at Adler University.

