

Cultivating Self-Compassion: Letting Go of Self-Judgment

Thursday November 9th, 2017

6:00 – 8:00 pm

Do you ever find it challenging to be kind and compassionate to yourself? However difficult, caring for ourselves is one of the most beneficial things we can do for our well-being. By offering kindness, courage and connection to ourselves in our daily activities, we can cultivate a more self-compassionate way of life. Come and invest in the most powerful relationship in our lives, our relationship to self.

In this workshop, we learn to:

- Develop awareness and acceptance of self in the present moment
- Create a gentle and supportive inner dialogue by releasing negative self-talk
- Embrace our imperfections and acknowledge our vulnerabilities with courage and resilience
- Celebrate (appreciate or acknowledge) who we are, as we are

Adlerian Counselling and Consulting Group
1729 Bank St., Suite 205 Ottawa, Ontario K1V7Z5

Cost: $40.00 includes HST

For additional information: call Kathryn Zettel at 613-737-5553 ext 301

To register: call Shannon at 613-737-5553. Registration deadline Nov. 3rd

Kathryn Zettel, M.A., M.Ed., R.P. is a Psychotherapist with the Adlerian Counselling and Consulting Group. She provides psychotherapy to clients on topics including anxiety, depression, self-esteem, compassion fatigue, loss, work related pressures and relationship challenges. Mindfulness is an integral part of Kathryn's life as well as her professional practice.

1729 Bank St., Suite 205, Ottawa, ON K1V 7Z5

Phone: (613) 737-5553, Fax: (613) 523-7148, e-mail: info@adleriancentre.com www.adleriancentre.com